COURSE OBJECTIVES

The course/conference is an arena for learning and growth of several kinds:

- Cultural exegesis: to experience and interpret major forms of cultural influence that are creating the context in which the emerging church must operate.
- Theological reflection: To hear culture posing critical theological questions and to exercise reflective skills needed to begin the process of developing meaningful answers.
- Personal reframing: to see personal and corporate ministry as an evolving, holistic, missional calling rather than a set of static roles played by executing a list of functions.
- Peer networking: to develop relationships with other leaders devoted to the life of the emerging church in an environment that maximizes long-term peer learning.
- Leadership enhancement: to grow in the character, skills, and gifts associated with the leadership arts as they relate to the emerging culture and church.

COURSE OUTLINE

1. Roundtable and plenary sessions will feature presentations by a variety of speakers. Many additional workshops will provide interaction with practitioners of the church in postmodern culture. Informal times of interaction will enrich both the presentations and the relationships formed at the event. A conference schedule is available at:
2. A brief orientation session will be held during the conference for all those taking it as a for-credit class. You will be notified by email of the time and place. This will give us a chance to meet and ask questions about the course assignments. Attendance is required.

2. Read: complete the reading of all the required texts. Use books from the Substitute Text list for any you have read previously.
3. Write: a 3-4 page paper summarizing what you believe to be the 3-5 most important ideas or challenges you picked up from the required texts and how they relate to your ministry context.
4. Communicate: email your pre-conference papers to me (ecreps@agseminary.edu) by the end of the conference.

b. During the class/conference

Be present for all conference sessions, workshops, and events. Participation in events, experiences, and relationships is critical for learning and growth.

c. Post-conference projects: CHOOSE 2 OF THE FOLLOWING 6 OPTIONS

1. Reading Reflection: read one of the Substitute Texts and write a 7-10 page paper that outlines the author's central thesis and responds to it in terms of your ministry context. This is to be a high-quality reflective essay, not a library research assignment.
2. Personal Growth Plan: write a 7-10 page paper detailing your plan for learning more about the emerging culture/emerging church and developing the ministry skills relevant to it over the next year. Describe the area in which you feel the most need for development. The plan should include reading, personal research, peer consultations, spiritual disciplines, changes in your ministry context, and other personal growth assets.
3. Sermons: using insights gained from the class/conference, write two sermons of significant length designed to reach a postmodern, pre-Christian audience. Do not recycle old messages! You may do either a manuscript, or a very, very detailed outline. While all sermons must be turned in hard copy, they may be accompanied by audiocassette and/or media support (e.g., PowerPoint, video clips, etc.) If you speak without notes, an audiocassette is required.
4. Research Paper: choose a major theme related to the course/conference and write a 7-10 page research paper. The paper should identify and reflect upon key ideas related to the topic, report on some of the major literature in the area, and apply conclusions to your ministry context. Supporting footnotes and a 15-item bibliography are required.
5. Internet Project: research postmodern churches on the Internet and prepare a 7-10 page paper on your findings. The presentation should include descriptions of the

- various churches, web links, their worship styles, and other key features. Draw conclusions about their use of the Internet itself, the application (if any) of their ministry model to your own (i.e., what you learned from them that could be applied in your context), and conclude by developing your own typology of emerging churches.
6. Multimedia Project: using the course/conference as a starting point, develop a brief multimedia (Web-based, PowerPoint, etc.) presentation that would accomplish either of two goals: making the postmodern church comprehensible to the mainstream church, or, making the gospel comprehensible to a postmodern audience.
 7. Self-defined Project: participants have the option of proposing a customized. post-session project as long as the professor's permission is secured in advance, and the proposal is in written form.

All written assignments are to be typed, double-spaced, represent quality graduate level work, and follow the Turabian style manual, 6th edition.

All assignments can be emailed to the professor (ecreps@agseminary.edu) with a title page that includes your name, address, phone and email, and the course number.

Due date: January 18, 2003

Note: the participant will be charged a $15 change-of-grade fee if work is turned in after the due date stipulated on the syllabus, even if permission has been given by the instructor.
