

ASSEMBLIES OF GOD THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

BGR 624 Studies in the Synoptic Gospels/Acts: Speeches in Acts

James D. Hernando

Fall 2007

COURSE SYLLABUS

COURSE DESCRIPTION

An exegetical and theological examination of the speeches in the Book of Acts. Emphasis will be given to understanding how these speeches reveal the Christology of the early church in general and Lucan Christology and Pneumatology in particular. Special focus will be placed on isolating the essentials of the apostolic kerygma as well as points of theological divergence. Also to be explored are the theological and practical implications for preaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ in the world today.

OBJECTIVES

At the successful completion of this course the student should be able to:

Knowledge

1. Discuss briefly any of the main issues of New Testament introduction regarding Acts and outline the major scholarly options, their assumptions and impact on other introductory and/or theological issues.
2. Present an informed and cogent argument for the historical reliability of the speeches in Acts, addressing both the issues of the nature of ancient historiography and the relationship of kerygma to history.
3. Construct a simplified outline of the apostolic kerygma of the early Christian church as presented in the speeches in Acts. Be able to discuss the distinctive elements or contributions of the various spokesmen examined.
4. Explain how Luke's presentation of speeches in Acts serves to present the faith of the early church and his particular emphases and perspective regarding of God's salvation in Christ.

Skills

1. Read Acts with an integrated approach that is sensitive to literary, historical and theological concerns.
2. Judge critically the scholarly arguments that posit a theological discontinuity between the faith of earliest Christianity and Luke's portrayal of the same.

3. Interpret individual periscopes within Acts in relationship to the broader theological purpose(s) of its author.

Attitudes

1. Appreciate the unique role Acts played in relationship to the Gospel of Luke and in the development of the NT Canon.
2. Understand more fully how Acts can stand in literary continuity with certain marked characteristics of ancient historiography, without surrendering its distinctiveness, or historical reliability.
3. Gain a growing awareness of need to posit the Holy Spirit's abiding presence and power in the Church in order to fulfill Christ's redemptive work through the Church.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

1. Attendance at all class sessions is expected. Whenever possible absences should be announced beforehand to the professor. Excessive absenteeism is defined by the AGTS catalog and may result in a grade reduction.
2. Students should prepare themselves in advance for each class session by completing their required reading assignment and/or written assignments. Participation in classroom discussion through comments and questions are encouraged.
3. Completion of all reading assignments:
  - a. The Book of Acts
  - b. Both textbooks in their entirety
  - c. Required reading from Supplemental Reading List.
4. Translation (according to prescribed format) of 3 main speeches in Acts
  - a. One from Peter
  - b. One from Paul
  - c. One from either James or Stephen
5. Students are to construct a grammatical analysis or syntactical layout in Greek and English of a minimum of (3) of the speeches in Acts.
6. A Theological Analysis Research Paper (15-20) pages excluding title page, table of contents, and bibliography). This paper is essentially an exegesis of a selected speech (to be approved by the professor) in Acts. However, the student can adapt and expand the conclusion of the paper to address a topic of relevant interest.

NOTE: See "Research Paper-Guidelines".

7. Final Exam

Note: Work turned in late without the prior permission of the professor will receive a grade reduction of ½ letter grade for every day late.

Chapel Attendance: The seminary chapel schedule intersects with our class schedule on the following dates: September 11, and December 4. We will attend chapel as a class on one of those dates, to be decided corporately as a class. Attendance is required.
