

ASSEMBLIES OF GOD THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

PHI 631/THE 628 Apologetics

James H. Railey, Jr.

Fall 2001

COURSE SYLLABUS

COURSE DESCRIPTION

A course designed to equip the student to defend the Christian faith against important contemporary assaults and to build a positive Christian world and life view. Appeal is made not only to the varieties of rational arguments but also to the special contributions of the Pentecostal message.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Upon the completion of this course, the student will have demonstrated in classroom discussions, examinations, and papers

1. An understanding of the biblical material that relates to apologetics.
2. A familiarity with the various approaches to apologetics and their theological and philosophical bases.
3. An appreciation for the relationship between faith and reason and an ability to formulate an approach to this relationship that will serve in ministry.
4. Knowledge of some of the key figures in the field of apologetics, both from the history of the church and from the present.
5. An ability to struggle with a defense of some of the major theological positions of Christianity and some of the major difficulties to the faith raised by those who object to Christianity.
6. An understanding of the crucial nature of the claim to exclusivity made by Christendom and some of the ways in which that claim can be defended.

TEXTBOOKS

Cowan, Steven B., ed. Five Views on Apologetics. Counterpoints, ed. Stanley N. Gundry. Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan Publishing House, 2000.

Strobel, Lee. The Case for Faith: A Journalist Investigates the Toughest Objections to Christianity. Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan Publishing House, 2000.

Moreland, J. P. Scaling the Secular City: A Defense of Christianity. Grand Rapids, MI: Baker Book House, 1987.

COURSE OUTLINE

1. Introduction
2. World Views
3. Approaches to Apologetics
4. Specific Concerns for Apologetics

METHODOLOGY

The primary method of instruction will be the lecture, with ample time devoted to the discussion of the assigned texts and issues that arise in the course of the class.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

1. The student is expected to attend all class sessions. Absences should be for extreme circumstances only. The limits established by the Seminary will be observed. (“Barring a serious medical emergency, credit cannot be granted for courses in which a student has been absent beyond the equivalent of more than 2 weeks” – 2001-2001 Catalog, 70).
2. The student is expected to submit a three to five page critique of the Cowan book on September 28, 2001. The critique should evidence graduate level interaction with the argument(s) of the book. The student should also be prepared to participate in class discussion of the text on that day.
3. The student is expected to submit a three to five page critique of the Moreland book on October 26, 2001. The critique should evidence graduate level interaction with the argument(s) of the book. The student should also be prepared to participate in class discussion of the text on that day.
4. The student is expected to submit a three to five page critique of the Strobel book on November 16, 2001. The critique should evidence graduate level interaction with the argument(s) of the book. The student should also be prepared to participate in class discussion of the text on that day.
5. The student is expected to submit a fifteen to twenty page paper on a subject from the list to be provided by the professor. The paper should conform to A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations, current edition, by Kate L. Turabian, using footnotes for resource documentation. The paper will be graded on content, composition, and style, and is due a class time December 7, 2001.
6. The student should sustain a mid-term and final exam (the final will not be comprehensive). Both exams will be essay in nature and, except for a personal emergency, must be taken on the assigned dates. The mid-term is scheduled for Friday, October 19, 2001, and the final exam is scheduled for Wednesday, December 12, 2001, from 7:30 A.M. to 10:00 A.M.
7. Late work is subject to grade penalties commensurate with lateness.

COURSE GRADING

The grade for the course will be determined as follows:

Book Critiques	25%
Exams	50%
Paper	25%

Grades are recorded and averaged on the basis of the following grade scale: A=12; A-=11; B+=10; B=9; B-=8; C+=7; C=6; C-=5; D+=4; D=3; D-=2; F=1.

All assigned work for the course must be submitted for the student to receive a passing grade for the course. The grade of I (Incomplete) may be granted only for extenuating circumstances upon the written request of the student. Except in the case of severe extenuating circumstances the granting of the I grade will mean that the course grade, assigned when the work is completed, will be reduced by one letter.
